

As a resident of a rural mountainous area, EVERY radio station I receive is via translator. The terrain is such that normal radio signals are problematic. There is no AM reception at all in our town.

LPFM as I understand it, could deny radio service to rural areas such as ours by usurping existing translator frequencies in use by existing networks. Translator frequencies currently in use should not be subject to reassignment.

KLOVE is a primary source of information for our community. It provides a local "bulletin board" of events that local non profit agencies use to advertise their events. As one of only 4 available FM stations in our area it is a necessary link to the greater world. Please do not cut us off from the outside world.

KLOVE is heard in weaverville on 102.7.
